Acknowledgments

This is the third edition of Legal Tactics: Finding Public and Subsidized Housing. It represents the work of many people and builds on resources and trainings that the Massachusetts Law Reform Institute has developed over the years, including the first and second editions of this book (2004 and 2006), Accessing Affordable Housing for Low-Income People (2001), Finding and Securing Housing for Low-Income Tenants (1999), Housing Training Manual: Finding and Securing Housing for Low-Income Tenants (1997), and several chapters in the 5th edition of Legal Tactics: Self-Defense for Tenants in Massachusetts (1993).

We know this is a well-used resource, and we strive to make it both relevant and understandable in a world where, unfortunately, it is still a complicated undertaking for low-income residents to find the affordable housing they need. In particular, my thanks go to a great team of authors, who have spent their precious time revising chapters for this edition:

Virginia Benzan, Massachusetts Law Reform Institute
Judith Liben, Massachusetts Law Reform Institute
Mac McCreight, Greater Boston Legal Services
Marcia Peters, Tenant Advocacy Project, Harvard Law School
Stephen Russo, Legal Advocacy and Resource Center
Ellen Shachter, Cambridge and Somerville Legal Services, an office of Greater Boston Legal Services.

I also extend my gratitude to Professor Elizabeth De Armond, from the Chicago-Kent College of Law, and Ashley Mann of HomeStart, Inc., for their willingness to review and edit text at a critical juncture. We also couldn't publish the book without the hard work of law students who assist with checking legal citations. Special thanks to Lee Branson, Assistant Director at the Office of Clinical and Pro Bono programs at Harvard Law School, for coordinating our work with students, and our appreciation goes to those students who chose to fulfill their pro bono requirements with us: Sarah Moum, Ali Abrar, Johanna Schwartz, and Will McGarrity. Thanks also to MLRI's students Kate Watkins and Shannon Erwin for their important contributions.

This book is created with the support of our amazing team here at MLRI, including: Lena B. Wilson, who keeps our Directory current; Sandra Quiles and Caroline Robinson, who recreate the book at www.MassLegalHelp.org; Annette Duke, who provides guidance in all things Legal Tactics; and Gale Halpern, who performs what I can only call magic at every juncture in the process.

One note on this edition: as of the printing in December 2009, there are several pieces of state and federal legislation pending that, if passed, would change the content of various chapters of this book. Between printed editions, we post updates at www.MassLegalHelp.org; we encourage readers to consult there frequently.
