Maximizing SNAP Benefits The Dependent Care Deduction

Special SNAP rule for families who have costs for the care of a child or disabled adult:

You may qualify for more SNAP each month! Every $3 you spend on child or disabled adult care may increase your SNAP benefits by $1 – up to the maximum benefit for your household. Tell DTA if you are responsible for child or adult care costs.

EXAMPLE: Jane and her husband have two children, ages 5 and 8. Jane works 40 hours a week and her husband is in a training program. They need after school child care. Jane earns $600/week. Jane's SNAP is about $600/month. She sends DTA a note explaining they pay $150 per week for after school care (including transportation). Jane's SNAP increases to about $800 per month!

What dependent care costs can I claim?

You can claim child care costs OR adult care costs if you need the care because:

- You are working, were offered a job, or are looking for work
- You are in school or a job training program
- Of a disability you have

Costs count even if you are behind on paying them.

Day Care, at home child care or "baby sitting":	All fees or costs you are responsible for, including co-payments
Out-of-School Activities for any child under 18:	Costs or program fees for any supervised activity, including before and after school, school vacation, summer camps, YMCA, and Boys/Girls Club Fees
Adult day care for a disabled or frail older adult:	All fees or costs, including for adult day care settings, at home attendants, etc.
Mileage (federal mileage rate):	If you drive the child or adult to/from the care provider, camp or school program, etc.
Public Transportation Costs:	If you or your child takes a bus, subway, or train to/from the care provider, camp or school program, or costs for transportation provided to a disabled adult day care center.

How does telling DTA about dependent care costs help my SNAP?

You can claim the full amount of costs you pay. There is no cap on the amount you can claim. If you already get the maximum SNAP amount for your household, telling DTA about child care or adult day care costs will not make a difference. If you get less than the maximum SNAP amount, telling DTA about these costs can increase your SNAP!

How do I claim child or adult care costs?

You can self-declare your child care costs. You can write it on your application or recertification form. You can also tell DTA about these costs at any time by calling DTA and telling them over the phone, or by writing down the costs on a piece of paper, sign and date it, and send it to DTA. You do NOT need to send in other proof, such as an invoice from the child care provider or a cancelled check. DTA should only ask for proof if the information you gave them is questionable.

Be sure to tell DTA about transportation costs, including the dates and addresses of the care provider.

What are my rights if my claim is denied?

- Call the DTA Assistance Line at 1-877-382-2363 to talk with a SNAP worker. If you disagree with what the SNAP worker says, you can also ask to speak to a Supervisor or the Office Director. Be sure to ask for the names of everyone you speak to.
- Call the DTA Ombudsman's office at 617-348-5354 and ask them to review the case.
- Request a hearing if you disagree with DTA's decision. You can have the hearing by phone, Zoom, or in person.
- Contact your local Legal Services office for help or more information: MassLRF.org
